

CLIMATE MONITORING IN MACEDONIA

SUMMER (JJA) 2010 AIR TEMPERATURE AND PRECIPITATION ANOMALIES FOR MACEDONIA

Average seasonal air temperature for summer (Jun, July and August) 2010 over the territory of Republic of Macedonia was above normal. The seasonal air temperature anomalies in reference to 1961-1990 have been in range from 0.6°C for Kriva Palanka and 1.7°C for Strumica and Demir Kapija.

The warmest summer month was August. Air temperature anomalies in reference to 1961-1990 have been in range from 1.8°C for Kriva Palanka and 3.6°C for Strumica.

The seasonal precipitation amounts over the north and north-east part of country were above normal and below normal over the other part of country. Compared with the period 1961-1990, the precipitation anomalies have been in range from -42.1 mm for Bitola and 105.2mm for Kriva Palanka.

The lowest precipitation amounts were registered in August.