

Analysis of air temperature and precipitation for summer of 2011

Air temperature in summer season ranged from 15.3°C (in Žabljak) to 27.3°C (in Podgorica). Air temperature deviations were positive and ranged between 1.9°C (in Nikšić) and 3.3°C (in Rožaje).

Average seasonal air temperature have been above long term average.

According to the distribution of percentile ranges, over the most part of the territory have been in extremely warm category and very warm.

Distribution of percentiles of air temperature for the summer of 2011

The amount of rainfall during summer ranged from 35mm (in Ulcinj) to 262mm (in Pljevlja). The percentage of the amount realized from the climate normal is between 24% (H.Novi) to 113% (in Pljevlja).

According to the distribution of percentile ranges, over the most part of the country have been in dry category, while in the normal category was the northern and eastern parts of the country.

The distribution of percentile rainfall for the summer of 2011

